Regina Rogoff, JD
Chief Executive Officer

FROM THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER: REGINA ROGOFF, JD

We did it! With your help, I’m proud to say that we finished construction of People’s Community Clinic at 1101 Camino La Costa in Northeast Austin, not only on time, but under budget. We moved in and started delivering services in April 2016. Many of you reading this annual report have already attended an event at our new facility. If not, I hope you will accept my personal invitation to come and tour. I think you’ll find it worth your while.

The new facility was designed by Milton Hime and his incredible team at Studio 8. The capital campaign to pay for the facility is being led by People’s Foundation Board member Nona Niland. The new clinic was planned as a Patient-Centered Medical Home and incorporates the latest ideas in promoting team-based care — open, airy hallways, comfortable waiting areas, pods and shared office spaces that encourage real-time problem solving, a demonstration/teaching kitchen, and multipurpose community rooms. With over 50 exam rooms, there is not just elbow room but, for the first time in many years, we actually have room to grow.

And we are growing! With the new facility’s opening, we transitioned our former home at 2909 N. IH-35, across the highway from St. David’s Medical Center, into the People’s Community Clinic Center for Women’s Health. We also opened a school-based clinic in Manor ISD. The Manor Mustang Clinic is an integrated care collaboration developed with Integral Care as a Medicaid Waiver project serving Manor ISD students and their siblings.

Between its multiple sites, by the end of 2016 People’s had close to 250 employees and was designated as one of the “Best Places to Work” by the Austin American-Statesman. In total, 13,166 unduplicated patients were served, a 15.7% increase over the prior year, with 50,144 medical encounters and an assortment of wraparound services including integrated behavioral health, chronic disease management, health education, nutrition and lactation counseling.

The new facility’s demonstration kitchen has been especially popular, as healthy cooking classes are taught weekly in both English and Spanish. The new community rooms have been used for Zumba classes and to provide free lunches during the summer to children and their adult companions.

But with growth also comes challenges. People’s is working hard to maintain the collaborative, caring culture for which it is known while managing growth and looking upstream to see how we can impact the social determinants adversely impacting our patients’ health. Our Center for Women’s Health is in need of a facelift, and we have plans for revamping services to better meet the needs of our family planning and prenatal patients. At the same time, there are pending health care changes at the federal and state levels that threaten our ability to provide well-rounded care to our patients. All of this makes us especially grateful for the strong Board leadership and community support with which the clinic is blessed. Thank you all for a huge success in 2016!

Regina Rogoff, JD
CEO, People’s Community Clinic
The Austin Medical-Legal Partnership (AMLP) assists People’s patients in overcoming legal barriers to wellness, including unhealthy housing, inadequate public benefits and lack of appropriate educational support. The AMLP integrates an experienced public-interest attorney into People’s primary care team, where providers and other staff members can refer patients with socio-legal issues that may negatively affect their health. The attorney provides intake, advice and counsel, representation, and as appropriate, referral to pro bono attorneys. People’s is proud to be a Medical-Legal Partnership leader in training staff, medical residents and patients on legal issues affecting health.

Center for Adolescent Health

Although adolescents often face complex health and behavioral challenges, they are less likely than younger children to have a regular source of medical care. People’s is a leader in the care of teens and at-risk youth in Central Texas. People’s Center for Adolescent Health (CAH) offers medical, reproductive and preventive health services, both on and off-site. CAH is staffed by a team of health educators, social workers, nurse practitioners and physicians with expertise in adolescent medicine, working together to provide comprehensive care to this historically underserved patient population.

Goals Program

Low-income children and teens with special developmental and behavioral health needs are eligible to participate in Generating Outcomes And Liaisons for Students (GOALS), an interdisciplinary program that provides ongoing assessment and support to this population. GOALS was founded in 2005 and serves as a medical/behavioral health home for at-risk youth. It promotes optimal mental health, wellness and developmental functioning using a team trained in evidence-based best practices. GOALS is supported by a community advisory council that meets three times a year with area professionals to review standards and resources regarding youth with special needs.

Health Literacy

Low health literacy levels in the United States raise costs and result in a greater likelihood of patients using emergency care and a reduced chance of utilizing preventive care measures. Health literacy allows patients to achieve better health outcomes and increases their ability to effectively manage medications. People’s develops and disseminates health education materials that provide clear direction to patients irrespective of their literacy levels.

Integrated Behavioral Health

At People’s, helping patients manage depression and mental health issues is a team effort. The Integrated Behavioral Health Program uses a collaborative care model in which a primary care provider, social worker and consulting psychiatrist work together to address a patient’s mental health issues within the primary care setting. Patients are monitored for symptoms of depression and anxiety, and treated using evidence-based approaches to counseling.

Nutrition and Breastfeeding Counseling

People’s offers nutrition services to all clinic patients, from newborns to adults. Studies demonstrate that breastfeeding is healthier than formula feeding for both babies and moms. Breastfeeding protects infants from infection and helps lower a child’s risk of developing asthma and obesity. Mothers who breastfeed have lower risks of developing ovarian and breast cancer. There has been a certified lactation counselor on staff since People’s began its breastfeeding counseling program in 2009. Of People’s pediatric patients, 87% are receiving breast milk at two weeks of life, which is higher than the national average. In addition, over half of the clinic’s six-month-old patients continue to receive breast milk, in comparison to 43% in nationwide reports. Other nutrition education services include one-on-one sessions and group classes that promote healthy eating, diet support for chronic disease management (e.g., hypertension, diabetes and hyperlipidemia), and guidance for women of reproductive age regarding healthy eating before and during pregnancy. The clinic also collaborates with local agencies that advocate for healthy eating habits and promote disease prevention through healthy eating.
PRENATAL CARE

In 2016, the former location of People’s main clinic was transformed into the Center for Women’s Health, expanding our capacity to offer reproductive health services to the community. Our goal is to ensure that People’s babies come into the world healthy and at optimal birth weights, and that mothers remain healthy before, during and after pregnancy. We are proud of our outstanding birth outcomes. Babies born at normal weights have significantly fewer complications and lower risks for morbidity and mortality. The percentage of People’s babies born in 2016 at healthy weights was 95%, exceeding both state and county rates.

TANDEM TEEN PRENATAL & PARENTING PROGRAM

Texas has consistently had one of the highest repeat teen birth rates of all states, according to the National Center for Health Statistics. People’s leads a multi-agency collaboration designed to reduce the risk of subsequent unplanned pregnancies in Travis County. A second birth during the teen years greatly increases negative social, educational and health consequences for both young mothers and their children. Tandem operates using a triage system to connect pregnant teens with resources that address their individual medical, educational and psychosocial services through the first three years of their baby’s life. Through intensive case management, direct access to family planning, parenting education and mental health services, the Tandem program has been particularly successful in keeping teens on track to achieve their goals. Tandem clients had an average repeat birth rate below 5% in the past four years, compared to a statewide rate that hovers between 19% and 22%.

OFF-SITE CLINICS

Through community partnerships, People’s offers primary health care, immunizations and other preventive health services to vulnerable populations at three off-site clinics. People’s has two clinics with SAFE (Stop Abuse for Everyone): SAFE at Grove Boulevard, where People’s provides medical care to help abuse survivors and their children build healthy, self-sufficient futures; and SAFE at Rathgeber Village Campus, where People’s provides primary medical care to infants through age 22 experiencing abuse, neglect or abandonment. Most recently, in 2015, People’s partnered with Integral Care (formerly known as Austin Travis County Integral Care) and Manor ISD to ensure students attending Manor ISD have access to high-quality primary and behavioral health care by providing services at the Manor Mustang Health Center located on one of their high school campuses.

Texas has the second-highest number of uninsured children in the nation.
Maria and her two teenage daughters found shelter at SAFE (Stop Abuse for Everyone) after suffering years of abuse. They regained their health and well-being through services provided at a People’s clinic located inside the shelter.

For over a decade, People’s has partnered with SAFE to provide medical care on-site for individuals receiving support at SafePlace and Austin Children’s Shelter. In the case of Maria and her two daughters, this partnership has helped turn their lives around.

“We’ve only been patients for a month, but we’ve had many appointments. Everyone is very, very welcoming and makes us feel comfortable,” says Maria. “We are so grateful for the care we’ve received.”

In addition to the services for Maria, her daughters have been treated by providers at People’s Center for Adolescent Health (CAH). CAH specializes in the unique health and developmental challenges that come with being a teenager or young adult. For Maria’s daughters, this type of care could not have come at a better time.

Maria finished her story by saying the family was recovering and would move from SafePlace soon. “But,” she says with a smile, “we will keep seeing our doctors at People’s.”

People’s Community Clinic

“I first learned about People’s Community Clinic when I was working at the Texas Health and Human Services Commission as the Deputy Executive Commissioner. Besides hearing that People’s was an extremely well-run organization by the state program funding monitors, I was also aware of how well-respected the clinic was by the patients who utilized their services. I have many friends and acquaintances who utilize People’s as their “medical/health home” and they rave about the medical care they receive, but more importantly they always comment that they feel respected as a part of the clinic’s community. As a current board member, I have learned so much more about the clinic, and this information has confirmed everything others have told me. People’s is about healthy people and a healthy community, and it is a privilege to serve on their board.”

The Chronic Disease Management Program was enhanced, resulting in more encounters for 2016.
Janet looks on as Nurse Practitioner Sherry Fishman-Carroll measures the height of her son, Victor. Her pregnancy with Victor brought her to People’s Community Clinic — she was a participant in the Tandem Teen Prenatal & Parenting Program, an interagency collaboration that supports teenage mothers through their pregnancy and the first few years of their child’s life.

Texas ranks among the top five states for teen birth rates, with a higher-than-average repeat birth rate among females 20 years of age and under. Often, young mothers are not given the resources they need, both during and after pregnancy, to ensure a healthy baby. In response to the high repeat birth rate among young Texas mothers, People’s created the Tandem Teen Prenatal & Parenting Program to provide the support needed for the health and well-being of young families, as well as to offer family planning services to reduce their risk of subsequent unplanned pregnancies.

“Everyone at the clinic is very thorough,” Janet commented. She said People’s staff were patient and spent the time necessary to make sure she understood all the information needed to keep herself and her baby healthy. She felt the clinical staff went above and beyond the normal medical visit, giving her the confidence she needed as a young mother.

In Texas, 22% of teenage mothers become pregnant again within a year of giving birth to their first child. Studies show that teenage mothers, especially those with more than one unplanned child, are often unable to finish their education, sink into poverty and suffer multiple negative consequences as a result. Active Tandem participants, however, have a repeat birth rate that hovers around 5%, greatly reducing those risks. Janet is one of those success stories.

“People’s was everything for Victor and me,” she says with a smile.

Founded in 1970 by volunteer nurses and doctors, People’s has pioneered a clinic model that is focused on delivering the right care, at the right time, cost-effectively. One out of every six people in Texas has no health insurance. People’s Community Clinic offers a solution, providing high-quality, affordable health care to uninsured Central Texans.
